Lemur News publishes manuscripts that deal largely or exclusively with lemurs and their habitat. The aims of the newsletter are to provide a forum for exchange of information about all aspects of lemur biology and conservation, and to alert interested people to particular threats to lemurs as they arise.

Lemur News welcomes the results of original research, field surveys, advances in field and laboratory techniques, book reviews, and informal status reports from research, conservation and management programs with lemurs in Madagascar and around the world. Manuscripts should be sent to:
